

FACE TO FACE
Written by Patty Francis

I remember lovers' eyes, but I don't know what they could see,
They may have tried to talk of love, but nothing they could say could ever find its way to me,
I only knew what it was when they were gone.

And when your feelings came around and caught me by surprise,
You laughed and said that you were sure, but I told you where I stood, and it wasn't even close to where you were,
Already thinking I might be moving on.

You knew that I'd always looked back on love when leaving it behind, the distance seemed to be
the safest place,
But lately I'm taking a closer view and you may have changed my mind when you said isn't it
time you met love face to face?

We live and learn today, it's all any of us have,
The moments teaching as they pass, I drink all of them in,
In the hopes a few are mine to save,
Taking comfort for now in what's right at hand

So let's hold the night and watch the darkness pouring in,
I let myself enjoy the glow, it may be brief at best,
But while I can, I'll turn to you again,
Accepting this gift I don't understand.

You knew that I'd always looked back on love when leaving it behind, the distance seemed to be
the safest place,
But lately I'm taking a closer view and you may have changed my mind when you said isn't it
time you met love face to face?
Isn't it time you met love face to face?
Isn't it time you met love face to face?
