

CARELESS LOVER

Written by Patty Francis and Tom Dickey

She held her coffee cup absently
As she continued to stare;
He said I'm frightened of growing old,
Having no comfort when I'm there.

Whenever people change their ways,
Someone's always going to suffer,
But who'd have thought that such a careful friend
Could be such a careless lover?

With my obsession for drawing lines,
There is one line I never drew;
Realizing now you never wanted me,
You just wanted to know that I wanted you.

Whenever people change their ways,
Someone's always going to suffer,
But who'd have thought that such a careful friend
Could be such a careless lover?

The shade has shifted and I'm aware
You're in a different light somehow;
Don't ask about the final episode,
I couldn't wait, I don't know how,
I'm glad I don't know how.

Whenever people change their minds,
Someone else is bound to suffer,
But who'd have thought that such a careful friend
Could be such a careless lover?
Could be such a careless lover?
Could be such a careless lover?
